VOL.21-25 (2011-2015)

A TENDRIL THOUGHT

"The ecstatic heights of collecting can be reached only by sharing the fruits of pursuit with like-minded companions, not only through the collection itself but also through the spoken and printed word. Inevitably, the things man collects inspire their own literature..."

— American Bottles & Flasks...Their Ancestry by Helen McKearin / Kenneth Wilson, 1978.

A BOOK COLLECTOR: "One who puts purpose and system into the acquisition of books. The purpose may be general, as expressing a desire to have a useful and enjoyable library, or it may be specific with the intention of covering one or more special areas of interest, or it may be to satisfy the taste of a connoisseur or the researches of a scholar." — JEAN PETERS, The Bookman's Glossary, 1975.
